

Fact Sheet Number 8.

Leathery Coit

The following information should start you on your journey into the past

Leathery Coit (Coat) is a headless ghost who drives a coach pulled by four headless horses. He emerges from a barn near the Great House in Elland, and drives furiously through the town, finally returning to the barn.

The story goes that Leathery Coit was murdered in the pub in the 1700s, with his blood still staining the wooden staircase at the pub.

He is said to haunt Old Earth Farm. Elland Lane which is now private dwellings.

Imagine that you have been sent to investigate a sighting in Elland of Leathery Coit.

It is in the early hours of the morning as you wait with your microphone to hear the sound of the horses hooves clattering on the cobbles towards you
